Dear Tom Lonsdale,

Thank you so much for your letter, for the article on the ecology of periodontal disease, and for your professional view of environmental concerns.

I am glad to be able to share your common sense approach to planetary medicine. I feel indebted to you also because by chance both my wife and our siamese cat, Roger, were in the early stages of the gingivitis syndrome. Sensible dental advice was working but it was good to have your enlightened explanation of what was happening.

With warm best wishes from us all here in Devon,

Jim Lovelock.
